Facts

- The upper 9 stories were being converted to condominiums in a development named The Park Monroe.
- The granite lobby opens to two stories at the three building entrances.
- One of the largest buildings in Chicago, covering half of a city block with no setbacks. The building forms a towering backdrop behind the older buildings of the Michigan Avenue streetwall.
- The building is located within a block of the Art Institute, Orchestra Hall, and the State Street shopping district.
- The lobby allows public passage between Monroe and Adams Streets, and features landscaping and large modern paintings.
- This development was originally planned as two 40-story black glass towers.
