Facts

- The building is composed of six cascading vertical interfaces with those on the sides protruding. The northeast section is two floors higher at 20 stories, but this difference is hidden because of the central setback.
- 400 Northpark Tower is part of Northpark Town Center, a 100-acre mixed use development by Portman-Barry Investments. Besides the three high-rise towers (400, 500, 600), there is a shopping mall with entertainment facilities. The on-going project also incorporates pedestrian plazas and bridges. Future plans include a 55-story structure and one additional midrise tower. Adjacent to the 500 and 600 Northpark Towers is the Sandy Springs MARTA (rapid transit) station, completed in 2001.
