• Designed by John Holden Greene, its design shows influences of the Federal style as well as the work of James Gibbs - in particular his St. Martin-in-the Fields in London.
• The church was dedicated in 1816.
• First Unitarian is of ashlar-laid white stone, obtained locally from a quarry in Johnston.
• The main entrance exhibits a portico with pediment above which rises the tower and tall spire.
• In 1966 the church was badly damaged by fire following a lightning-strike.
